(From Our Regular Correspondent)

Washington, December 16.—In the House to-day a bill supplying a deficiency of $750,000 for the printing needed at this time by the Census Bureau was taken up, and Mr. Bland, of Misscuri, moved to put an amendment on the bill providing for the collection of the statistics of mortigages on the farming lands of the United States. Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, who had the bill in charge, made a point of order against the amondment of Mr. Bland, and the point was sustained, but Mr. Dockery, of Missouri, first made some remarks which brought on an odhand manner that it was not necessary to offer any such amondment, as it was understood that Mr. Porter, Superintendent of the Census, would collect these statistics anyway. Mr. Dockery then produced a letter from Mr. Porter, Superintendent of the Census, would collect these statistics anyway.
